CHAMPIONS!

Sachem East field hockey captured its second state championship this season

For the second straight year, the Sachem East field hockey team came back to Long Island with a New York State championship. Playing at Cicero-North Syracuse High School, Sachem East defeated Liverpool, 3-0, in mid November.

Senior Karyn Ryan scored two goals for Sachem in the victory. Katie Trombetta scored a goal with 40 seconds left in the game. Cara Trombetta and Katie Shanahan added assists. “It’s amazing to think about,” Ryan, a senior, told Newsday of the legacy her team is creating and the reputation it already has established. “I couldn’t be more proud to be part of a . . . great team like this.” The Arrows, who beat Williamsville North 6-0 in the state semifinals on Saturday, finished the season a perfect 22-0. Sachem East has not lost a game since Oct. 24, 2011, a stretch of 390 days and has won its last 29 games. That’s a mark of 43-1 over the last two years. Jordan Miller recorded her 16th shutout of the season. Sachem has also recorded nine shutouts in its last 12 playoff games spanning the last two seasons.

Letter from the editor

It’s been a busy fall in Sachem. This past month has been a blur. From state championships to board meetings, a brief break due to Hurricane Sandy and plenty of other meetings, functions and events in the school district, there has been a long list of ways to help keep Sachem informed.

Through our social and digital media platforms in Sachem, we gained thousands of followers this month. We are also in the works of launching “The Sachem News Hour” radio show on WSHR, Sachem Radio, which will officially debut on Thursday, Nov. 29.

As I’ve said before, there are many communication initiatives we’re working on in Sachem with the goal of keeping you all informed as much as possible. Stay tuned for more to come.

If you’re not already following us on Twitter, you can find us @SachemSchools, and likewise with Facebook.com/SachemSchools. Each month we’ll expand this publication, offering more and more interesting stories and tidbits you can’t get anywhere else. If you have any news or information you’d like us to share across our multiple digital platforms, please do not hesitate to contact me directly. You can email me at CVaccaro@Sachem.edu. #GoArrows!

From Superintendent Nolan’s desk

Dear members of our Sachem Community,

This has certainly been a challenging start to our school year. The recent hurricane left many folks without power for an extended period of time and we also lost seven days of instruction. Please know that we will never place our students in a situation where they would not have the ability to meet with success, and our staff members will do everything possible to have our students thoroughly prepared for all assessments. Sadly, some folks experienced far more tragic losses and we continue to remember them in our thoughts and prayers. If you know of anyone who may still be in need of assistance, please feel free to contact us and hopefully we can provide some help or relief.

We are extremely excited about the many ways our students have demonstrated great character and leadership during these difficult times since the hurricane. There are countless stories of our students using their time and talents in very humble and unassuming ways to help others near and far. The Sachem Family continues to work interdependently to develop leaders of great character who are highly competent, confident and caring. Most importantly, we are motivating our students to become the best version of themselves.

It was certainly evident during the past few weeks. In speaking of leadership, please look for the notices about our two parent nights during the last week of November. The Covey Institute has been so impressed by our schools that they would like to use our schools and our district as a leadership model for others to visit. On Tuesday, Nov. 27 and Wednesday, Nov. 28 Mr. Gary McGuey from the Covey Institute will be with us to present The 7 Habits of Highly Effective People to our parents. The first night will be held in the auditorium at sachem East at 7:00 p.m. and the second night will be held in the Sachem North auditorium at 7:00 p.m. Tickets will be distributed in each of our eighteen schools, so be sure to get yours as soon as possible because I am sure they will go quickly. We look forward to seeing you!

On behalf of the entire Sachem Family I wish you and your family a very peaceful and happy Thanksgiving!

Sachem East has big bullying awareness month

October was National Bullying Awareness month. The Peer Educators and Project SPECTRUM at Sachem East, led by teacher Erin Regan-Gearns, participated in many activities that aimed at encouraging students to stand up to bullying. Project SPECTRUM is run by 11th and 12th grade Peer Educators and stands for Sachem Promotes Equity Cooperation Tolerance Respect Unity Mediation. East hosted local author and Sachem parent, Patty Blount, to discuss her new novel Send. Mrs. Blount met with students throughout the day to discuss the inspiration for her work as well as her personal experiences as the mother of a victim of bullying and the negative impact bullying has on the families of both perpetrators and victims. Students and teachers alike were moved by Mrs. Blount's presentation and are excited to read her novel, which is available on Amazon.com. Mrs. Gearns secured funding through a partnership with Donors Choose.org and The Bully Project: 1 Million Kids, for her students to have a private viewing of the documentary Bully at Loews in Stony Brook. Bully, released in March of last year, received much media attention as it provides a shocking and painfully realistic look into the lives of several young people who have been bullied, two of whom took their lives in response to the harassment they endured. The Peer Educators were so moved by the stories and experiences portrayed in the film that they have begun working on ways to encourage their peers and younger students to stand up to bullies and give a voice to those who may be unable to stand up for themselves. There are many projects in the works to deliver these messages at East, other buildings, and the community over the next few months. Peer Educators also attended the Unity Day Conference, sponsored by The Suffolk Center on the Holocaust, Diversity & Human Understanding together with the Suffolk County Human Rights Commission and the Suffolk County Anti-Bias Task Force. Students in attendance learned about topics such as cyber bullying, bullying legislation on the national and local levels, and strategies to raise awareness in schools.

Sachem's Model United Nations Club strung together a very successful debate at Patchogue-Medford High School in November. Peter Amato (PJ), a senior and Co-Secretary General of the club, won the top award of Best Delegate in the Security Council Debate. This is the toughest competition as every school has its best debaters representing them in this committee. Amato was assigned to represent the country of Syria which is currently in the center of developments in the Middle East. In his speech announcing Amato as the winner, the debate chair said, "PJ is the best delegate I have seen in my four years of participation in Model UN Conferences..." and praised his skills of diplomacy and negotiation. Sophomore Brian Richer took second place Honorable Mention in his debate session in the African Union Committee. Brian was representing the Democratic Republic of the Congo and won for his enthusiastic representation of his assigned nation. As this was only Richer's fourth conference participation Sachem is going to be seeing many more wins from him in the future. Sachem's next conference is at Plainview High School on Friday, Dec. 14 and Saturday, Dec. 15.

Sachem Robotics Team Aftershock wins Hills Invitational

The Sachem Schools FIRST Robotics Team #263, known also as "Team Aftershock", packed up their 2012 robot named "Sigma", and won the inaugural Half Hallow Hills (HHH) Invitational meet Sigma's goal is to shoot and score baskets with a smaller basketball after acquiring and loading them into its feeder system.

The Sachem Robotics team had traveled many miles with the 2012 robot build - Suffield, CT; New York, NY; Hofstra, NY; and then the FIRST Robotics 2012 Championship event in St. Louis, MO - the HHH Invitational would be the last major competitive event for Sigma.

There were 22 robotics teams in attendance on Saturday, and through many preliminary rounds of competition the Sachem robot performed well. When the top four teams had to choose two additional team to form their alliances - the top team, Miller Place (#514) chose Hauppauge (#358) and Sachem (#263) to compete with them in the semi-final rounds.

At the end of the semi-final rounds the alliance that Sachem was a part of, now advanced to the finals. They would face the other finalist alliance of Brentwood, Patchogue-Medford, and Cold Spring Harbor.

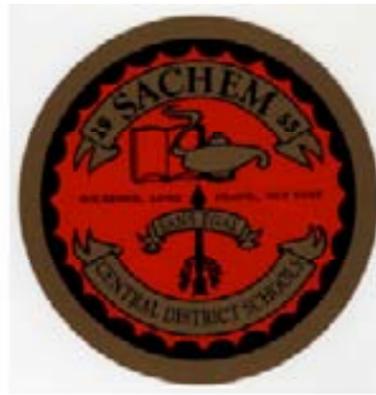

It would take winning two out of three rounds of competition to win the finals - the alliance Sachem was in went out onto the field of play and won the first two rounds. There would be no finals third round played today.

The Sachem Robotics Team: "Aftershock" is a combined effort of students and alumni from both East and North campuses of Sachem High School. Each year the Robotics Team builds a new 120-pound robot to compete in the FIRST robotics competitions against other teams from all across the country and world. Their competitions take place regionally on Long Island, New York City, Connecticut and nationally in St. Louis, Missouri. Students work together and with teachers and engineers from several companies across the area to build a robot from the ground up. During competitions this year the Sachem team used a four position team setup - driver, shooter, mentor and human player. However, there were many others involved in building Sigma - mechanical, electrical, programming, and communications. Truly a team effort to make this robot perform successfully on the field of play. The Sachem Robotics team would like to thank the Sachem School Board for their continued support, the teams many sponsors, and many parents/family/friends for their continued support also. The team is now looking forward to the announcement of the 2013 build that will be on January 5th, 2013 with a regional kickoff announcement meet-up being held at Stony Brook University. -Words by Ed Christiansen
